Foster-Malone.

Mr. M. M. Foster, and Mrs. Lydia Malone, of this city, were united in marriage at Buffalo, N. Y., Tuesday morning, according to a telegram received here yesterday morning by friends. Announcement of the marriage does not come as a surprise to the friends of the newly married couple, as rumors of the wedding have been heard for some time. Mr. Foster and Mrs. Malone left the city Monday, and it was then understood that the wedding was to take place during their absence. A message was to be sent to friends here after the wedding had taken place, and this was received in the city yesterday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Foster are expected home in a day or two, and upon their return will reside at the bride's home on Fairmont avenue.

Mr. Foster is manager of the Fairmont Ice Company, and Mrs. Malone is the widow of Mr. Lee L. Malone, who was general manager of the Consolidation Coal Company, at the time of his death nearly two years ago.

Mrs. Malone and her daughter, Blanche, who recently married her chauffeur, Al Saunders, of Baltimore, upon the death of Mr. Malone left her to about $800,000, the greater part of which, however, is held in trust for a number of years. Mrs. Malone's pretty home on Fairmont avenue was recently completely renovated and is now one of the handsomest in the city.—Fairmont Times.

The bride and bridegroom will go to housekeeping on First street. They have a host of friends who wish them all the happiness possible. Among the wedding presents they received was a huge, leather upholstered rocking chair, which was given by Mr. Sappington's fellow members of the police force.

JEW

Praised by Taft Who is Introduced as Champion of Religious Reciprocity.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—I came here tonight, not to make a speech, but to second the motion that a memorial be raised to the Jew who stood by Robert Morris and financed the American Revolution," said President Taft to a large audience assembled in the Eighth Street Jewish Temple in the interest of the movement for the erection of a monument in this city to Haym Salomon.

Mr. Taft declared that the man who wears a sword and epaulet is not the only patriot, that money is the sinews of war, and Salomon furnished large sums from his own pocket when financial support was most needed by the founders of this government.

Eulogizing the Jew as a citizen, the President said:

"No great charity, no movement for artistic development could live were it not for the support given by the Jews."

His statement that it is the duty of the President of the United States to testify to his interest in every religion fostered under the flag was greeted with prolonged applause.

The Rev. Dr. Aram Simon, president, introduced the President as the champion of religious as well as political reciprocity.

government would elect General Reyes for minister of war. He declared that Reyes would not be acceptable to the revolutionists, and that he did not think he would be minister of war.

Lower California, he said, would probably be the only part of Mexico which would not be immediately restored to tranquility. The warfare there is apart from his, but he hoped that it would soon cease. The men of his army will be allowed to enlist as volunteers.

Madero said that the government would encourage American investments but would oppose trusts and wholesale granting of concessions.

Today will be devoted to work on a definite peace agreement. It is expected by the rebels that Judge Carbajal will be able to sign the agreement within two days.

Carbajal officially transmitted to Madero an invitation for the latter to go to Mexico City.
